Volatility Insights

Watching some historical volatility numbers on shares of Ecopetrol S.A. (EC) we can see that the 30 days volatility is presently 2.61%. The 7 days volatility is 2.99%. Following volatility data can help measure how much the stock price has fluctuated over the specified time period. Although past volatility action may help project future stock volatility, it may also be vastly different when taking into account other factors that may be driving price action during the measured time period.

The company has a beta of 1.65. 1.00 indicates that its price is correlated with the market. Less than 1.00 shows less volatility than the market. Beta greater than 1.00 indicates that the security's price is theoretically more volatile than the market.

The Average True Range (ATR) value reported at 0.61. The average true range (ATR) is a technical analysis indicator that measures volatility by decomposing the entire range of an asset price for that period. A stock experiencing a high level of volatility has a higher ATR, and a low volatility stock has a lower ATR. The ATR may be used by market technicians to enter and exit trades, and it is a useful tool to add to a trading system. It was created to allow traders to more accurately measure the daily volatility of an asset by using simple calculations. The indicator does not indicate the price direction; rather it is used primarily to measure volatility caused by gaps and limit up or down moves. The ATR is fairly simple to calculate and only needs historical price data.

Investors tracking shares of Ecopetrol S.A. (EC) may be focusing on where the stock is trading relative to its 52-week high and low. At the time of writing, the stock had recently reached at $21.25. At this price, shares can be seen trading -24.00% off of the 52-week high mark and 39.34% away from the 52-week low. Investors often pay increased attention to a stock when it is nearing either mark. The Price Range 52 Weeks is one of the tools that investors use to determine the lowest and highest price at which a stock has traded in the previous 52 weeks. It has a market cap of $46399.16M.

Many investors forget that one of the defining characteristics of the stock market is that it's a market. Buyers and sellers help determine the price of each stock, and the more buyers and sellers a particular stock has interested in it, the more liquid the market will be. Liquidity can have a profound impact on just how violently stock prices can move in either direction, and the reasons have to do with the nature of the market in a stock's shares.

Trading volume, or volume, is the number of shares or contracts that indicates the overall activity of a security or market for a given period. Trading volume is an important technical indicator an investor uses to confirm a trend or trend reversal. Volume gives an investor an idea of the price action of a security and whether they should buy or sell the security.
