Since the early hours of yesterday, the inhabitants of the communities of La Jagua, La Mojarrá and El Caimán of the township of Fortalecillas, retook the road that leads to the Los Ángeles Sanitary Landfill, pointing out that to date they have not complied with the agreements agreed last January with the Municipal Administration.

The community asks for a greater commitment to fix the road.

The blockade that still persists and that hopes to reach new agreements with the Neiva Mayor's Office, is located in the Caimán sector, there with ropes, chairs, the inhabitants prevent the transit of garbage collection cars, as well as vehicles that They go to the oil plants.

This prevented Ciudad Limpia, the company in charge of waste collection, from carrying out its work in the Sixth and Eighth communes of the city, for which reason they had asked the people of Neiva to avoid removing their waste. Likewise, some municipalities such as Palermo, Aipe, among others that go to the Los Angeles landfill to leave the garbage were affected.
