

Guaido asks Peter to answer about the possible purchase of Monomers from Ecopetrol

WORLD 26/03/2023 | Updated: 5 hours ago

 By Nation World News Desk

Monomeros sounded again this week, this time because Ecopetrol announced that, unlike the ambassador of Colombia to Venezuela, Armando Benedetti, he said that no dialogue about a possible deal had progressed.

"This entity, whose activities have been announced in the 2040 plan and business in the market, has progressed the talks on possible business involvement," the oil company said in a statement.

However, the situation continued in the pipeline and already the leader of the opposition Juan Guaidó asked the President Gustavo Petro to clarify the facts. The Venezuelan politician said that if it happened, it would be irresponsible on the part of Nicolas Maduro and a "unilateral delivery" of the state.

Guaidó has posted several tweets referring to the alleged purchase, in which he describes it as another "shady deal" by the Maduro government. "It turns out that Maduro "sold" Monomers to Petro for much less than the estimated value. After completing the Venezuelan patrimony that we investigated, it was protected and made a profit from 2019-2022! Something shady," he said in one of his tweets.

In addition, he accused Maduro of wanting to "fill his pockets by continuing the practice of embezzlement and auctioning." "President Petro, explain who you believe, your representative or Ecopetrolco?"

For his part, Benedetti said that they will wait for the new president of Ecopetrol, since the plan is to buy it before the private farmers buy it. "We believe that this company can be a good run more profitable than Ecopetrol itself," he added at the regional round organized by ProColombia, in the city of Barranquilla.

The ambassador explained that the purchase could be 100% of the company. Although he decides that if they have not reached financial agreements, he will participate in the participation of 51% or 52%. If this were to happen, the Colombian government would have a partnership with a neighboring country to acquire shares of the Venezuelan company.

Vinicius Jr. Brazil does not need a leader in the process of reconstruction. The Real Madrid winger failed miserably in his first attempt to become the world's best five-man franchise. In a friendly last night, the Seleçao lost against Mauritania (2-1) in a friendly in Tangier, where the injured Neymar Jr. He did not participate and where Vini was one of the failures of the struggle.

There is only one Neymar Jr. in Brazilian football. This is the conclusion that leaves Brazil's defeat against Morocco, because Vinicius Jr. not to offer the same huge benefits, or leadership, or leadership over the group as PSG's '10'.

Brazil lost Ney, who is recovering from surgery on his right ankle, which kept him off the pitch for the rest of the season. No one could fill the void. And the Seleçao had a lot of problems in the final third when it came time to decide.

As is the case in Real Madrid, Vini Benzemá is a great help, but when he pulls the bandwagon he has many limitations and even more so in this state where he has decided to fight with the world.

RODRYGO, the rest, which is signed

In the first match Brazil after the death of 'Pela' and '10' that 'O Rei' played for immortality, they used Rodrygo, a footballer who comes from the categories of Santos FC. As for the move itself, the play made sense and that's how CBF sold it, but when it came down to it, the execution of the Real Madrid striker left a lot to be desired.

in the 64th minute he was on the field, Rodrigo played the wrong part of the 9 ... but it wasn't up to him. He created only one goal by chance, which made it very difficult for him to enter the game and it was clear that this was not the best position. Finally he was replaced by Vitor Roque, the striker of Ath. Paranaense that is on the agenda of Barça.

There's a new $100 book: what's it like?

26/03/2023

A group of researchers, associated with the company Open AI at the University of Pennsylvania An article in which they explained the impact artificial intelligence in the labor market.

The said study is clear in defining the analysis of AI happening in the US labor market.

(ChatGPT and Bard4: differences between Microsoft and Google AIs).

The study notes that "in recent years, extended language models have demonstrated their prominence in the field of artificial intelligence research, demonstrating their ability to cope with a variety of complex language-based tasks. This progress has become complex, including increased parameters, larger volumes of data to model, and better training settings.

(Major tech fuels the rally in US stocks).

Faced with this paradigm, the researchers made the observation of some tasks from a very important variable: how access to this technology can reduce the time for a person to complete a task by at least 50%. This is, in simple words, that men cannot be replaced in their work; rather, you analyze how AI can get the job done.

This study, likewise; It shows that about 19% of jobs in the United States have at least 50% exposure to AI, when dividing the capabilities of the current model.

(Route N has exhibits at the new technology park opening).

According to a specific study, in that order there are services with several levels of exposure to a wide range of languages, for example;

- Translators and interpreters (76.5%)
- votes (75%)
- Poets and writers (68.8%)
- animal scientists (66.7%)
- public affairs (66.7%)

They are in the 100% range mathematicians, tax assessors, quantitative analysts, writers and authors; and web interface batteries.

Another variable that was exposed in the study is how exposure to AIs increases depending on the level of training.

(The company is looking for experts managing ChatGPT).

“Our analysis suggests that individuals with professional and graduate degrees are more likely to be exposed to these programs than those without formal educational credentials,” the research paper states.

Under this logic, it was also found that jobs with less exposure to AI require longer preparation, but have a lower potential offer.

The study concludes with the researchers noting that “we observed that most occupations have some degree of exposure, with those that generally offer a higher salary, more responsibilities with greater exposure.”
